GEORGE WASHINGTON.

* I have always been opposed to the mode of resigning government up to an individual, or what is called a single executive. Such a man will always be the chief of a party. A plurality is far better: It combines the mass of a nation better together: And besides this, it is necessary to the manly mind of a republic, that it loses the debasing idea of obeying individuals.

“ When we contemplate the fall of empires and the extinction of the nations of the ancient world, we see but little more to excite our regret, than the mouldering ruins of pompous palaces, magnificent monuments, lofty pyramids, and walls and towers of the most costly workmanship : But when the empire of America shall fall, the subject for contemplative sorrow will be infinitely greater than crumbling brass or marble can inspire. It will not then be said, here stood a temple of vast antiquity, here rose a babel of invisible height, or there a palace of sumptuous extravagance ; but here, ah, painful thought ! the noblest work of human wisdom, the grandest scene of human glory, the fair

+ If Mr. Jay desires to know on what authority I say this, I will give him that authority publicly when he chuses to call for it.

Soon after that I was put in arrestation and imprisoned in the Luxembourg, the Americans who were then in Paris went in a body to the bar of the Convention to reclaim me. They were answered by the, then, President, Vadier, who about the middle of March, after the fall of Robespierre, and the 9th of Thermidor) the fate of Robespierre was a continued scene of horror. A man could count upon life for a few days. To such a pitch of rage was Robespierre and his associates carried, that it seemed as if there were no man to live. Scarcely a day but in which ten, twenty, thirty, fifty or more were taken to the guillotine, carried before a pretended tribunal in the morning, and guillotined in the afternoon. One hundred and sixty were taken out of the Luxembourg in the month of July, and one hundred and thirty of them guillotined. A great number more, according to the reports of Robespierre's prison, was preparing a few days before Robespierre fell. In this there was good reason to believe I am sure. A memorandum, in the handwriting of Robespierre, was afterwards published, in which the convention, by the command of Robespierre, had examined the papers of Robespierre, and in these words :

...From the Gazette of the United States
...TO TOM PAINE
...Detested reptile! wherefore hast thou come,
...To add new evils to our growing land?
...To some wild desert let thy carcass roam,
...Where naught can wither by thy blasting hand.
...Has Europe, weary of thy daily crimes,
...Disreg'd thee wretch! corrupting and corrupt?
...Art thou too vile e'en for her blood stained times?
...That thus you leave her sudden and abrupt.
...When the high billows raised thee towards thy ...God,
...Didst thou not tremble at his awful frown?
...And when again you sunk into the flood,
...Didst thou not gaze terrific and profound?
...In that dread hour thy soul no comfort knew;
...No pleasing hope was found within thy breast.
...For there a storm of terrors loudly blew,
...Compared with which the Ocean was at rest.
...Thy friend with all his power who called thee
...here,
...Could then no joy, no moment's ease impart;
...You e'en forgot the rapture, now so dear,
...To meet in him a kind congenial heart.
...Now safe on shore again your spirits rise;
...Again your power of blasphemy employ:
...Hurl bold defiance both to earth and skies,
...And church and state with frantic zeal destroy.
...But first to Monticello bend your way;
...Drink wise instruction from the best of men;
...Then to thy goddess Reason with him pray;
...And rush forth from his philosophic den.
...But still to bear the curses that pursue,
...And shut thine ears against the hissing crowd;
...Use thy good friend, to often tried, to true:
...Here Rum is cheap and Drunkenness allow'd.
...In the dark hour that brought thee to our shore,
...The shade of Washington did awful frowl—
...Hence, gloomy monster! curse mankind no more,
...Thy person fit thy as thy soul is foul.
...When life's electric spark shall quit thy frame,
...Myriads of devils wait to seize their prey
...With shouts and yell they loudly call thy name,
...Then bear thee to thy destined doom away.

A PROPOSAL BY SAMUEL BISHOP For publishing by Subscription, LETTERS

ON THE Elementary Principles OF EDUCATION.

By Elizabeth Hamilton, Author of the "Memoirs of Modern Philosophers," &c.

ON this interesting and highly important branch of science, several valuable works have within a few years, been prepared to the public, among which the above, as it is the most recent, is so pre-eminently useful. Led by her father into an inquiry concerning the nature of the creative powers, and intellectual faculties of the human mind, Mrs. Hamilton has developed those powers and faculties with a perspicuity and ability which while it attracts the attention of those who have most successfully studied these subjects, multiplies a competent knowledge of them familiarly to the most ordinary capacity. The superficial and frivolous of a vulgarly engendered by the modern system of education, have been long, and duly, a subject of complaint; but the particular causes by which these evils have been produced, were hitherto but imperfectly known, or little attended to: To trace these evils to their source, and to point out the proper remedy, is the ultimate object to which the meritorious efforts of this Author have been directed; and in these efforts she has, it is believed, succeeded beyond the most sanguine expectations. Such indeed, is the importance of the inquiries which form the subject of this work, and to great the benefits with which these inquiries have been pursued, that the happiest consequences to society may reasonably be expected to result from the present publication. To all it is interesting in a very high degree, but to mothers of families, and others engaged in the formation of the minds of children and youth, it will prove an acquisition truly invaluable.

The rapid sale of two impressions of this work in England, sufficiently evinces the high estimation in which it is there held: An American edition—equal to, and at little more than half the price of the British edition—is now offered to the patronage of the American public; by whom it is believed, will be fully appreciated.

[An Extract from the above Work.]
From an opinion of the writers on education it would appear, that it is only to people of rank and fortune that education is a matter of any importance. By such alone can the systems that are generally proposed, be adopted. To such, therefore, must we believe them to be exclusively addressed. To make fine ladies and finished gentlemen forms no part of my plan, which has for its object the instruction of the passions, the direction of the affections, and the cultivation of the faculties that are common to the whole human race.
The price of the British edition, is fifteen shillings, Sterling, in boards.

CONDITIONS.

I. The Work shall be comprised in two Duodecimo volumes, of about 450 pages each, & shall be printed in the best manner, on a fine Paper, and new Type.

II. The price will be one Dollar per volume in boards, payable on delivery.

A very considerable number of Copies being already subscribed for, the work shall be put to Press, and finished without delay.

Subscriptions received by the Publisher.

TRACT OF LAND,

Lying on both sides of Goose Creek, in this County, and running from thence to the said town; containing about five thousand acres, most of which has been laid off in lots, and since leased for lives or a term of years; from the peculiarly eligible situation of this land, and its great fitness for the improving state of agriculture that is taking place in this neighborhood, it is hoped that it will be an object worth the attention of those who wish to vest their money in landed property; one third of the purchase money will be required on the day of sale, the remaining two thirds to be paid by two annual installments; six per cents of the Stock of the U. States will be taken in will be required to secure the payments.
